1976, the year of the Bicentennial - Many proud Americans lay tribute to a nation formulated by a people bold and unwavering toward their struggle for survival. A bond of tenacity united them, mutual in their desire for independence.

It was this same type of people that realized the need for a health oriented institution. That same character which developed and expanded what they designated King's Daughter's Hospital. Improvisations were made. New departments added, and the increasing personnel began to fill the need of a community advancing steadily in age and progress.

But growth was not solely confined to the immediate hospital. The school that had also developed during this time proudly watched their prospects mature in technique and knowledge pertinent to the nursing profession.

However, the school and hospital function not as separate entities but together in the molding of we, the future nurses. Therefore, one must remember and by remembering, appreciate its' contribution in the completeness of our education.

Without the patience, concern and co-operation so typically displayed by all personnel, it is inevitable that we could not have reached our goal.

With their assurance and guidance we can and do take delight in the accomplishment of this profession. We are truly grateful.

Last Will And Testimony

I, Harry Arrowood, leave one deck of cards and four horse-racing stubs to the school.

I, Donna Cannon, leave to the nursing school my thanks and gratitude for their patience and perservance in helping me reach my goal.

I, Debi Duncan, leave Mrs. Daniels the flying broom and black pointed hat to remember me by.

I, Alice Ferguson, leave . . . finally.

I, Betty Fuller, leave 5 gallons of tears, 10 gallons of sweat and any blood I have left to the best nursing school in the world.

I, Lib Hathaway, leave my idiot string to the "Senior Citizen" of the next class.

I, Elaine Harris, leave my scrub stool in the O.R. to anyone short enough to meet the requirements.

I, Val Horn, leave long seminars, technical questions and unlimited bathroom privileges to a courious person with a weak bladder.

I, Deborah Jones, leave my room to Terry Hogue only if she keeps it in the same neat and tidy order as it is always in.

I, Christina Lawson, leave Mrs. Brown 1,000 cleaned and starched crying towels to be given to some deserving freshman and one bottle of Murine to get the red out.

In a nutshell! I, Diane Lee, leave my "intelligence" and "sanity" to Norma Pond to use as she sees fit!

I, Robin Mayes, leave to the School of Nursing my memories of Crownsville, my love for Chinese dinners and all my Bank Americard receipts.

I, Kathy McCutchan, do bequeath my precious collection of David Bowie posters to whomever will appreciate them as much as I.

I, Nancy Perdue, leave my ENERGY on the clinical unit to Mrs. Futrell who said she wanted it. My ability to talk goes to Nancy Stamper who doesn't need it. To Laura - one bus ticket and to the Freshmen my best wishes.

I, Lori Simmons, leave to Mrs. Clark my MATERNITY NURSING book for handy reference, to Mrs. Smith my "constant complaints" and to my little sisters, Robin and Debbie, the endurance they'll need to graduate.
